TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

It is enthusiasm that I write the letter of recommendation for my English teacher, Scott 'David' Plumlee. He is a NES from the USA with a 150-hour TESL Certificate and a Bachelor's Degree. As I knew him, he has been teaching English classes to corporate adults in many banking and technology companies in Thailand. Additionally, he has been teaching via online platform with private student groups for several years.

The past two years, I was David's student in bi-weekly Business English Classroom Course, English Public Speaking & Presentation Skill Training Course and many English workshop classes. In my opinion, he is a quite professionalism and polite manner English teacher. He can explain complex ideas in a simple way so students can understand him clearly. Moreover, he understands Thai students' English skill and culture. He can get along well with students with different English level skills.

In my estimation, he had many teaching techniques. He always prepared some games for student filled with joy in class and also provided business affair and daily life topics discussion with students. Not only students learned English grammar knowledge, they also gained more natural English skill. Furthermore, with clear English accent and mind openness, students could understand and felt free to ask questions.

Upon requesting for this recommendation, he stated a strong interest in teaching in demographic of adults as an English Tutor, Text Editor or TOEIC Trainer. With his strongly background in English teaching, I would highly recommend him for you and hope that you will carefully consider his application.

Sincerely,

Parichart Chanchaipattana
